Jenifer,

The California Wing has already paid for these dies and should not have to pay again for the dies to be transferred, especially in light of the current situation. These dies should be transferred to our ownership without any further compensation or delay.

Ms. Holquin,

I have received your email requesting die ownership to be transferred from Northwest Territorial Mint to you. The court has determined that NWTMINT retained ownership of all NWTMINT dies created to produce coins, medallions or other products for customers. The court has approved the settlement for the ownership transfer in the amount of $300.00 per die.

Do you have any documentation from the previous order?

comment: Attached you will find my original order which includes the dies from my original design that I submitted to NWTM to produce the dies and pins. I am unsure if there are more than one set of dies for my design in your possession. NWTM had some quality control issues in the production of my dies and pins which they attempted to correct more than once and finally did. Due to their quality control issues I was only charged once for die production but I did receive more than one shipment of pins until they finally addressed the quality control issues and produced pins that were consistent with my intended design. So, I would like to receive all dies and other materials related to my design that may be in your possession.

I also have a JPG image of my design that I can provide you of my design which I will send you as well separately. This form appears to only permit the attachment of one file.

The court determined that NWTMINT retained ownership of the dies, they are considered tooling to produce the coins. This was a settlement the court arranged. If you would like to dispute the charges, I believe the information was provided in the letter with a court date.

Thank you for providing me with the current email between yourself and Kim Fall. Northwest Territorial Mint did make some exceptions with customers and your email documentation proves that you are in that category. I will have to charge you for the shipping of $45.00, unless you have a UPS account you would like me to use.

Please call me at 775-461-7341 to discuss the shipping details for the return of your dies.

Hello Jenifer ,

I was under the impression that I owned those dies since I already paid for them and they were to be housed at the mint for my use this was what I was told at the time of purchase by one of your sale representatives . I have attached an e-mail correspondence stating that . I can forward the entire e-mail to you if you wish . So why are you asking me to pay again for something I am supposed to own ? I can understand that I would pay to ship them to me, but that figure you gave me is almost the entire cost of what I paid to have them made initially .I think am entitled to those dies and I should be able to get them in my possession for just the standard Shipping cost to me .

I was only able to purchase once from those dies then your company folded , If your representative would have expressed that the business was near an end I would have pursued another mint ,but I was misled into believing that all was fine with your company there was no indication by the sales rep that the future was uncertain .Please let me know how I can get my dies without that outrageous cost. Thank You , Dave Vachon

Ms. Baker,

After discussion with our Fire Chief, we have decided to not pay the ownership transfer fee for our two dies. It was our understanding when we the dies were made, we paid for the dies at that time and they belonged to us - they were just housed at NWTMINT. It seems unfair to have to pay for something we have already paid for, but the court ruling stands.

If something changes on transfer of dies, please let us know.

Thank you for your help,

Kevin Lucia

Mr. Lucia -

I have received your email requesting die ownership to be transferred from Northwest Territorial Mint to Midlothian Fire Department. I have found the die numbers for your coin and would be happy to process this request. The court has determined that NWTMINT retained ownership of all NWTMINT dies created to produce coins, medallions or other products for customers. The court has approved a fee for the ownership transfer in the amount of $300.00 per die.

Medalcraft Mint is a supplier of coins and would be able to use your dies to produce the medals. My recommendation would be to reach out to the owner and have a discussion with him.

Jennifer,

I will be talking about the purchasing again or our “Clark County Fire District 6” die(s) with staff, since we paid $1,050 originally for them, and they were to be owned by us.
Not being a maker of such coins as we purchased, I don’t know how easy it is to find another minter that would make items for us, and not assured they wouldn’t say that they need to cast their own die(s) anyway.
Perhaps you have some insight on this since as I recall you worked for the original maker we purchased through before employment with current company.

Thanks for your assistance.

Jerry

Hi Jenifer,
Thank you for your information via phone just now.

Below is the original email sent to you that bounced back.

I received your name from Denise Lentz of K&L Gates LLP in Seattle, WA regarding my attempt to receive the die that our agency purchased from NW Territorial Mint LLC. The die request form doesn't appear to be on the associated website provided in the letter received, and therefore am reaching out to you for assistance in assuring I meet the June 21, 2018 deadline as referenced in the letter.

You will find purchasing information attached to email for verification, along with a letter that was just sent out to Ms. Gates. Denise immediately called me and provided your contact information as the individual who is handling this process of die recovery.

Your assistance is greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,

Jerry
